NEWS BY THE MAILS.

From Georgia.

Ex-Governor Joseph E. Brown of Georgia, has had his property restored.

MILITARY COMMISSIONS.

The Savannah Republican of the 18th contains the first day's proceedings of a military commission, which is trying General Hugh W. Mercer, who was for a long time in command of the Confederate forces at Savannah. General Mercer is charged with having ordered seven Federal soldiers, names unknown, to be shot. The soldiers were prisoners who enlisted in the Confederate service and then attempted to desert, but were caught. General Mercer protested against his arrest, imprisonment and trial, as he was paroled as a prisoner of war unnder the articles of convention between Generals Sherman and Johnston, but states that he has always, from the moment of his arrest, requested a prompt examination and trial. The counsel for General Mercer are Thomas E. Lloyd and Judge Hartridge, two of the most distinguished members of the Georgia bar.

The military commission before which Aaron A. Bradley, a negro lecturer, was recently tried for using seditious language in a public meeting, has found him "guilty" of the several charges, and sentenced him to hard labor at Fort Pulaski for one year.

Curious Statements as to the Relations of Napoleon and Maximilian.

The affairs of Mexico have come at last to the crisis anticipated by wise men from the very first, but not anticipated even by them to take place quite so soon. The difficulties which have arisen between the court of the Tuilleries and that of the Emperor Maximilian, with regard to Juarez, have renewed the rumor of the secret treaty of Miramar, which empowers the Emperor to withdraw his troops at any time from Mexico whenever Maximilian's payments should be two months in arrear. The pretext would be curious enough on the part of a power which prides itself on conciliating for ideas alone.

Louis Phillippe, whose system differed with this ideal one of Louis Napoleon, declared the country rich enough to pay for any amount of glory it might choose to purchase. But in this case, the pretext will be seized without scruple by the Emperor, who, in presence of the irritation displayed by the United States, is resolved to avoid a further complication of the difficulties amid which he has so thoughtlessly rushed.—The cause of the coolness between the two emperors is the refusal of Maximilian to receive as Minister of France the invaluable treasure sent him in the capacity and the personof M. Langlais. Maximilian, whose life has been spent in dodging his dune, is scarcely green enough to confide his purse itself to one of his most urgent creditors.

The message from the United States, of which Gen. Schofield is undoubtedly the bearer, whatever the agreeable journals may declare to the contrary, has caused the greatest ire at Compiegne. Maximilian has given orders for the evacuation of the northern and southern portions of the empire, in order to remain as true as possible to the family tradition of the quadrolateres. The Empress Charlotte, whose journey to Europe is ostensibly occasioned by the wish to visit her father in his dying state, leaves with the greatest regret; but Maximilian, on beholding the war of extermination which is now commencing between the insurgents and the Imperialists, as the natural consequence of all that has gone before, insisting on placing his wife out of danger.

The Paris journals are strictly forbidden to speak of Mexico, and yesterday the office of the Temps was visited by the man in black, in high dudgeon at what he termed the "indiscretion" of which that paper has been guilty. The arrival in Paris of the magnificent jewels belonging to the Empress Charlotte, under pretence of alteration and repairs, has given rise to all sorts of comments. People say that a certain great financial firm has been induced to lend a considerable sum upon the imperial coronet, which was composed of the whole wedding diamonds of the Princess Louise, and which was all the King Leopold ever got with his wife.—Cor. Liverpool Journal.

Greely on the Special Message.

Horace Greeley thus speaks of President Johnson's late special message: "We find in the text of this message no adequate reason for Mr. Sumner's denunciation of it. If the President had demanded of Congress that it act on his judgment rather than its own, then he would have acted unwarrantably; but as he has simply given his own views of the existing situation, with his reasons for suggesting a particular course, he deserves neither denunciation nor obloquy.

"Two great ends are now in view: 1. The restoration of the State lately in revolt to their former position in the Union. 2. The protection of their freedmen from future oppression and outrage. We are in favor of both these. We are opposed to keeping the Southern States indefinitely in the condition of conquered provinces or territories; we are in favor of requiring and providing guarantees for the protection and rights of their freedmen. There may be those who fancy that they are favoring the freedmen by calling for the execution of the rebel chiefs, the confiscation of rebel property, and the perpetuation of Southern pupilage—or rather, vassalage; but I believe there is a kinder and surer way of reaching the end we aim at. We see not how we could help the freedmen by making war either on the President or on the rebels, who have thrown down their arms. Where we find either in fault, we do not hesitate to say so; but we judge that the true interest of the blacks is to be subserved by cultivating the kindiest relations with both.

"We trust there will be developed in Congress the suavity and practical sagacity required to secure at once an early restoration of the Southern States, and a perfect and perpetual guaranty of the essential rights of manhood to their freedmen. And we still hope to see Congress and the President cooperate in securing these beneficent and nowise inconsistent ends."

The following, from the New York Tribune, is too good to be lost:

If no other reason existed for the pardon of Davis, this would do: If he is hanged, whom can the "loyal" organs abuse? When Wirz was living, he was a most fruitful subject. If Davis goes, their case will be distressing. We would recommend—as an emergency victim—the Czar of Russia, or the King of Abyssinia. By all means let us have the King served up.

NEW GOODS.

New Line Opened! Makes Two Trips to the Old Line's One!

A. CREECH HAS JUST RETURNED FROM the North, where he has bought his second supply of

STAPLE AND FANCY DRY GOODS,

Embracing the various New Styles of the Season, together with Ladies' Cloaks, Long Shaws, Breakfast Shawls, Ladies and Misses' Goods, Ladies and Misses' Hoop Skirts, Ladies and Misses' Balmoral Shoes, Gent's Boots and Shoes, Boys, Youths and Children's Boots and Shoes Felt Hats, the Derby the Dasher, the Planter's wide brim, and other styles for Men's wear. Boys, Youths and Children's Hats. Wood and Willow Ware, Crockery and Glass Ware, and a superior lot of Family Groceries.

Take my stock altogether, I have one among the largest and most desirable and complete stocks of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods in the City.

Now, allow me to say that I bought my Goods to sell, and they must and shall be sold; but I don't expect to take a piece of poetry in one hand and a full grown humbug in the other and climb up to the clouds and fish out the birds of Paradise and gently bring them down with a placard stuck on their backs, "Selling out at Cost! selling out at cost!" No, I deal in no such humbug. I keep no such a class of Goods. I keep no time worn, shelf-rubbed, defaced or dusty Goods—dust so thick you can rub it off with a knife. My Goods are all new, and of good styles, and I intend to sell them as low as anybody that bought goods with the expectation of paying for them, and the man that sold the goods to the man that don't intend to pay for them, is a fool—and the man that sells them is a rascal. Now this is plain talk, but 'tis no s ip of the tongue. I mean what I say, and say what I mean. I have lived here and sold goods here for twenty years. I expect to remain here. I pay my taxes to support Institutions of the City County and the State. I expect to continue to do so. I respectfully ask my old customers, my old friends and new ones to call and examine my stock. I will deal with you honest and treat you right. If I don't sell you goods as cheap as you can buy the same class of goods elsewhere I don't expect you to buy. Call at the R Smith building, house formerly occupied by Creech & Litchford, Merchants and Auctioneers.

A. CREECH.

Gov. Holden Relieved--Gov. Worth Enters upon his Duties.

On Christmas morning we sent to our readers an extra containing the following telegram:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.

Secretary Seward, by direction of President Johnson, has addressed Gov. Worth of North Carolina a letter informing him that Gov. Holden is relieved of his trust as Provisional Governor, and directed to deliver to him the papers and property connected therewith. Secretary Seward, in the communication to Gov. Holden, conveys the President's acknowledgments for the fidelity, loyalty and discretion which has marked his administration.

Gov. Worth had left the city a few days before and had not returned up to this writing.—We are therefore unprepared to give the reader the letter of Secretary Seward to Gov. Worth.

The following is the dispatch of Secretary Seward to Gov. Holden and his reply:

MR. SEWARD TO GOVERNOR HOLDEN.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, December 23, 1865.

To His Excellency W. W. Holden, Provisional Governor of the State of North-Carolina, Raleigh:

SIR: The time has arrived when, in the judgment of the President of the United States, the care and conduct of the proper affairs of the State of North-Carolina may be remitted to the constitutional authorities chosen by the people thereof without danger to the peace and safety of the United States.

By direction of the President, therefore, you are relieved from the trust which was heretofore reposed in you as Provisional Governor of North-Carolina. Whenever the Governor elect shall have accepted and become qualified to discharge the duties of the executive office, you will transfer the papers and property of the State now in your custody to his Excellency, the Governor elect.

It gives me especial pleasure to convey to you the President's acknowledgement of the fidelity, the loyalty and the discretion which has marked your administration.

You will please give me a reply, specifying the day on which this communication is received.

I have the honor to be, your Excellency's most obedient servant.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

GOV. HOLDEN'S REPLY TO MR. SEWARD.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Raleigh, Dec. 23, 1865.

To Hon. Wm. H. Seward, Secretary of State, Washington:

SIR: Your dispatch of this date, relieving me of the duties as Provisional Governor of North-Carolina, has been received.

It gives me pleasure to be relieved of the responsibilities and labors of the office. I will at once transfer the great seal, and papers, and property of the State, now in my possession, to the Hon. Jonathan Worth, Governor elect.

Be pleased to convey to the President my sincere acknowledgements for the honor he has done me, and the confidence reposed in me, in calling me to this position. With expressions of the hope that his plan for restoring the insurgent States to their natural and appropriate place in the Union may be crowned with entire success,

I have the honor to be, with high respect, your obedient servant,

(Signed,) W. W. HOLDEN.

The presumption is, that Gov. Worth will enter upon the duties of his office on the 1st of January, 1866.

The State Government.

The government which Gov. Worth is called upon to administer is a civil one. It pertains to home only. The condition of the people requires that it shall be economically administered. In this regard, the State could have selected no better Executive. As his intercourse with the President will be direct, he will need no Agent at Washington, and as he will not be at all connected with military affairs and having a Council of State, he will need no Aids de Camp, except such as receive no pay. We want an economical government, and Gov. Worth is the man to fill the State exchequer.

What is our Condition under the new Regime.

The question is frequently asked, what is the status of North Carolina upon the assumption of the duties of Governor, by Mr. Worth? The question has its difficulties, and it is probable there will be a diversity of opinion upon the subject. We submit our own thoughts, therefore, with diffidence.

Provisional governments in the States are unknown to the Constitution, and until the late rebellion, were unknown in the history of the country. Hence they are neither regular nor territorial. They originated in the necessities of the times; and were authorized by the President as a part of his plan of reconstruction. His authority for instituting them is derived from his military power as commander in-chief of the army and navy of the United States. They were in their character semi civil, though of necessity a part of the military government exercised in the revolting States.

The Provisional Governors were Federal officers, and were the confidential Agents of the President, whose powers and jurisdiction were derived entirely from him. They were governed not directly by existing laws or constitutions but by the President's will. The removal or relieving of the Provisional Governor therefore, and the allowing a Governor elected by the people according to the forms of the Constitution, to assume the duties of his office, does necessarily abolish the Provisional government, and restores civil law and civil government. This Mr. Seward plainly intimates in his dispatch to Gov Holden:

"The time has arrived when, in the judgment of the President of the United States, the care and conduct of the proper affairs of the State of North Carolina, may be remitted to the constitutional authorities chosen by the people thereof, without danger to the peace and safety of the United States."

The accession of Gov. Worth to the Governorship therefore, restores partially to the State her powers of self-action, and removes all impediments to the exercise of all necessary and proper powers to her full rehabilitation under the Constitution.

Circumstances however, render it necessary that the immediate military authority of the President should for a time continue its surveillance in the State. The President apprehends no detriment to the peace and safety, of the United States from the legitimate exercise of the functions of the State authority, but difficulties may arise between the people of the State and the Federal government, against which he must provide, by continuing the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, the presence of the military and the Freedmen's Bureau, until the State government can successfully protect both governments from any possible hazard.

The reader will readily percieve, that according to our understanding of the case, the way is now cleared to the full restoration of the civil Courts and their constitutional jurisdiction, except in so far as all matters connected with the freedmen are concerned, and all offences against the peace and safety of the United States arising among the people of the State. Until a satisfactory code is established by the Legislature for the freedmen in the State, necessary for the protection of their liberty, person and property, the necessity for the Freedman's Bureau and consequently the presence of the military will exist, and until all anxiety is removed in regard to the temper of our people towards the government.—All acts, rights, or privileges of the people made cognizable by the laws of the State, not in conflict with the authority of the General government, will hereafter be fully under the jurisdiction of the State government and our Courts.

But it may be objected that the continuance of the military, the Freedman's Bureau and the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, argues the continuance of the Provisional Government. By no means. The civil governments of Kentucky and Maryland have never been interrupted and yet all these have been kept up and are continued to this day.

The Freedmen in North Carolina.

So far as we are able to judge of the prevailing sentiment in this State, in reference to the condition and future provision for the freedmen, we think that our people are almost unanimous in their readiness to carry out fully the purposes of the President in regard to them. From the moment the war terminated, no sensible man has had any other idea than that slavery was dead, and that the best possible policy for both races was, to adopt at the earliest day such laws and regulations as would secure them in their rights of person and property and to protect them against lawlessness and injury. This they consider a necessity and their readiness to do justly by them, is plainly evinced by the fact, that in no State has the Freedman's Bureau had few er collisions with the whites or fewer difficulties in arranging for the blacks than in this State.

Indeed, the provision necessary for the blacks has almost ceased to give the masses of our people any concern, so ready are they to acquiesce in any system for their protection and government which would be adopted by the Convention or Legislature. The Convention provided for the appointment of a commission to prepare a code for the government of the blacks to be submitted to the Legislature.

With such views our people were poorly prepared to expect such an attack upon their feelings and motives as is contained in the following dispatch sent from this city after the adjournment of the Legislature, by the Agent of the Associated Press here. Speaking of the Legislature, this Agent of the Press says:

"No law was passed, nor even proposed, for the government or protection of the freedmen."

Our attention has been called to this and to the comments of the Northern press upon it.

The above is a fair specimen of the candor and reliability of the man who has been selected as the Associated Press Agent in this city. Now he knew perfectly well why it was the Legislature failed to do any thing with the Freedman's code. He knew perfectly well that it proceeded from no disposition to neglect the freedmen, or to do them injustice. Why did he not give the reason? Could he have been influenced by any other motive whatever, but to prejudice the Legislature with the Northern people, and thus keep up his continued attacks upon the loyalty of the people of the State?

We say he knew the reason. He knew that a joint committee of both Houses was appointed to whom this subject was specially referred—that that committee corresponded with the commission appointed by the Convention to prepare a code for the freedmen—he knew that the commission had not completed their labors, and that it was judged most advisable by all parties as the Legislature designed to take a recess, that it should not take up the subject until it was prepared to complete it. He knew that this was the only reason for its delay, and yet he prepares such a telegram as would impress the Northern people with the idea that it was sheer neglect and indifference on the part of the Legislature. This idea of neglect on the part of the Legislature he keeps up in his paper, and attempts to saddle the Worth men with the responsibility.

A person so utterly devoid of principle and fairness, who is so regarded in the community in which he lives, is an unfit individual to be connected with the agency of the Associated Press.

Enemies of the State.

The surrender of the people of North Carolina to the armis of the Federal government, put an end for all time to come, to all attempts at armed hostility, and to the possibility of their ever becoming a party again to any combination at war with the peace and prosperity of the nation. One great cause, if not the chief and only cause, potent enough to array the nation again into sectional division and strife, having been removed, the case was plain, that wisdom and common interest, dictated at once, the exercise of forbearance and kindly feeling, and the cultivation of the best and earliest means of restoring between the two sections amity and good feeling.

The victorious party could well afford to be generous, even though the vanquished could not so easily recover from the smart and the chagrin of defeat. Many at the North both in and out of the army, felt the generous impulses of a common brotherhood, and were ready to "forgive and to forget," but at the North and here and there scattered over the South, were to be found persons whose bitterness and hatred against our people found frequent vent, whose efforts were at once directed to keep up at the North, the burning hatred which slavery and the war had engendered, by writing and publishing every thing which could by a high and false coloring, increase that hatred and intensify the hostility of the ultraists of the North against our people.

Had it been literally true of the entire North, that the war had been prosecuted solely to effect the restoration of the Union—had slavery been abolished simply as a consequence of its restoration, and had the vanquished been met by the entire people of the North, with the spirit which has actuated the President and those who endorse his policy, nothing on the part of the Southern people and especially in North Carolina, could have arisen, to interrupt in the least, the steady and early restoration of concord and amity. Our people laid down their arms for peace and its accompaniments, and they were ready to accept it on any terms that a generous conqueror would prescribe.

Unhappily, for North Carolina and the South, there were Southerners among us, who were ready to pander to the ultraists of the North—who oblivious of the sufferings and the wants of their own people—blinded by partizan hatred and eager to secure their own advancement and to compass their own selfish ends, at once allied themselves with the enemies of our people, to denounce and abuse those whom they had heretofore aided in misleading—whom they had warmly urged to the fight, and then meanly and treacherously deserted them in the hour of greatest trial.

Such people have been our greatest foes, and deserve and will receive so long as the memory of their treachery remains, the execrations and the scorn of all honorable men. At the period of the greatest peril of the Southern cause, they flung themselves against it. When it went down, they resolved not to go down with it, but sacrificing all their manhood and self-respect, played so disgraceful a part in trying to win the good opinion of the conquerors, as to excite their scorn and derision.

They have always been untrue. They were untrue to the government before the rebellion. Their factious opposition and bitter denunciations of the North, engendered and promoted the strife. They never rested until the South was on a blaze. They stood by to fan the flame until they saw it was in vain, and then kindled up a fire against the very cause they had helped to build up and made haste when all was ruined, to proclaim their devotion anew to the old government. They have made fools of the people once that was their fault; if they fool them again, that will be the people's fault.

The Legislature.

The question was mooted during the late session of the Legislature whether or not officers of the Provisional Government, or Judges and Solicitors had a right to seats in the Legislature.—The question seemed not to be clear on account of the existence of the Provisional government. Now that the civil government will be inaugurated in a few days, we presume, it can no longer be a question. To avoid therefore the consumption of time and the delay of the public business when the Legislature meets, would it not be advisable for all who are constitutionally disqualified, at once to resign their positions and let the vacancies be filled before the meeting of the body? There are several we believe, who are thus disqualified, who occupy seats on opsite sides of both Houses.

Pardon of Gov. Graham.

We learn that President Johnson has signed the pardon of Gov. Graham some time ago.—This will therefore be no impediment to his taking his seat as U. S. Senator, when the Congress modifies or repeals the test oath.

A Bit of War History—Lee's Surrender Premeditated.

The following passage is from the forthcoming volume of Pollard's Southern History of "The Fourth Year of the War:"

"There can be no doubt in history that General Lee, in taking his army away from Richmond and Petersburg, had decided, in his own mind, upon the hopelessness of the war, and had predetermined its surrender. The most striking proof of this is, that on his retreat there was no order published against straggling—a thing unprecedented in all deliberate and strategic retreats—and nothing whatever done to maintain discipline. The men were not animated by the style of general orders on such occasions. They straggled and deserted almost at will.

"An idea ran through the Virginia troops that with the abandonment of Richmond the war was hopeless, and that they would be justified in refusing to fight outside the limits of their State. Nothing was done to check the notorious circulation of this notion in the army. The Virginia troops scattered off to their homes at almost every mile of the route. We have seen that Pickett was left with only a handful of men. Some of the brigade commanders had not hesitated to advise their men that the war was virtually over, and that they had better go home and make crops."

"But there are other proofs besides the omission of these measures against straggling usual on retreats that General Lee had prevised a surrender of his army. He carried off from Petersburg and Richmond all the transportation of his army, sufficient, perhaps, for one hundred thousand men, certainly largely in excess of the actual needs of the retreat. The excessive number of Virginia troops who were permitted to drop out of the ranks and return to their homes, shows very well that there was no firm purpose to carry the war out of the limits of that State. Prisoners taken on the retreat invariably reported that the army was soon to be halted for a surrender; and General Custis Lee, when captured by the enemy, is alleged to have made the same revelation of his father's designs."

What Mr. Seward's Proclamation Signifies.

The proclamation of Secretary Seward, officially declaratory of the amendment to the Constitution in abolition of slavery, has, at this crisis, an additional significance, as being an affirmation on the part of the Federal Administration of the existence of the Southern States, as States, with in the Union. In that respect, it was a harbinger of the President's message to the Senate. The proclamation and the message are bombshells in the radical camp. They define the President's policy of reconstruction beyond any chance of misconception. Mr. Stevens and his faction have been outmanœuvred, and a breach has been accomplished between the Executive and the radicals through which the Southern States can pass on to their legitimate position in the political household. Mr. Johnson is now positively committed to the enforcement of the right of the South to Congressional representation, and the Select Committee of Fifteen might as well send in their report at once, and ask to be discharged from the consideration of a foregone conclusion. —New York News.

THE VOTE AGAINST NEGRO SUFFRAGE IN WASHINGTON.—The Washington Union thus refers to the recent vote in that city on the subject of permitting the negroes to vote:

The large vote of yesterday is made up of citizens of Washington of all political creeds. It is not confined or hedged in by old party ties, prejudices or associations. From the aged father of four score years to the youth of twenty-one summers, our citizens generally experienced the importance of the result, and it has been solemnly determined.

We trust it will be heeded by those whose duty it is to obey the popular will. Hundreds who have not cared to vote for ten, and in some instances for twenty years, cast their ballots yesterday against negro suffrage, assured of the evils and wrongs to arise from its exercise in this city.

SIGNIFICANT.—The special correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, in noticing the recognition of Alabama as a State of the Union by the President, says that he "has looked over the fact that her Legislature repudiated the second clause of the Amendment act, giving Congress the right to legislate for the freedmen; and as the President was well aware of this repudiation, it follows that he regarded it as wholly immaterial in the recognition of the State. In fact, it is known that he looked upon this clause as harmless; and Secretary Seward has himself declared his opinion that the passage of the amendment would rather 'restrain' than 'enlarge' the powers of Congress. The rejection of the latter part of the amendment has therefore been no bar to the admission of the State, and it probably will not be to the States who acted in a similar manner. Georgia and South Carolina adopted the amendment clear, as passed by Congress; but all the other States rejected the clause that was attached to the amendment."

BROOMS.—Mr. J. N. Scofield, at Mount Mourne, Iredell county, N. C., is engaged in manufacturing as superior article of Brooms as were ever made anywhere, and he says he can sell them to merchants at less rates than they can be bought in the Northern markets. We hope wholesale and retail dealers will give Mr. Scofield a trial, for manufactories of this kind, located in our midst, deserve encouragement.—Charlotte Democrat.

A CHRISTMAS HYMN.

BY ALFRED DOMMETT.

It was the calm and silent night,
Seven hundred years and fifty-three,
Had Rome been growing up to might,
And now was queen of land and sea.
No sound was heard of clashing wars,
Peace brooded o'er the hushed domain;
Apollo, Pallas, Jove and Mars
Held undisturbed their ancient reign
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

'Twas in the calm and silent night,
The senator of haughty Rome,
Impatient urged his chariot's flight
From lordly revel rolling home;
Triumphal arches, gleaming, swell
His breast with thoughts of boundless sway;
What recked the Roman, what befell
A paltry province far away
In the solemn midnight
Centuries ago.

Within that province far away,
Went plodding home a weary boor;
A streak of light before him lay,
Fallen through a half shut stable door,
Across his path. He passed—for naught
Told what was going on within;
How keen the stars, his only thought—
The air, how calm, and cold, and thin,
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

O, strange indifference! low and high,
Drowsed over common joys and cares;
The earth was still, but knew not why,
The world was listening unawares.
How calm a moment may precede
One that shall thrill the world forever!
To that still moment, none would heed
Man's doom was linked, no more to sever,
Centuries ago.

It is the calm and silent night,
A thousand bells ring out, and throw
Their joyous peals abroad, and smite
The darkness—charmed and holy now!
The night that erst no name had worn—
To it a happy name is given;
For in that stable lay, new-born,
The peaceful Prince of Earth and Heaven,
In the solemn midnight,
Centuries ago.

FAYETTEVILLE N. C. MILITARY ACADEMY.

THE EXERCISES OF THIS INSTITUTION have been resumed without the military feature, and an additional number of pupils will be received for the balance of the session, which will terminate 26 weeks from the 1st of January, 1866. The discipline and course of instruction will be the same as in similar schools, with the exception of a thorough course in the Ancient Languages, embracing Latin and Greek composition. In surveying and engineering the instruction will be both theoretical and practical. Arrangements will be made at an early day to secure a complete set of Chemical and Philosophical apparatus. No pains or expense will be spared to make this one of the best Schools in the country. The buildings are located on Haymount which overlooks the town of Fayetteville, and which is remarkable for the healthiness of the location, the beauty of the scenery, and the intelligence, refinement and high moral character of the people. There is almost daily connection between Wilmington and Fayetteville by steamboat, and this is suggested as the best route to the latter place from almost any quarter. Students will be received at any time, and will be charged from the date of entrance, though it will be best to enter about the 1st of January, 1866.

Terms for 20 weeks from 1st of January, 1866, payable in advance:

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

THE UNIVERSITY.—It will be seen that the next session of the University opens on the 12th of January next.

FIRE INSURANCE.—The N. C. Mutual Fire Insurance Company holds its annual meeting on the 9th of January next.

OLD SIXES.—Dr. Miller it will be seen offers old 6's for sale.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.—During the holidays every thing was remarkably quiet in the city.—We have had no riots and we hear of no cases of burglary or ruffianism.

THE FREEDMEN.—The colored people so far throughout the State have been remarkably quiet. We have heard of no out break at any point. We are glad that they have been orderly and quiet; and have thus put to rest the apprehensions which have been expressed in regard to them.

BROKE JAIL.—We learn that two men belonging to the army we presume, who had been committed to the military prison here for gambling or some other offence, broke jail on Tuesday night last and made their escape.

THE TOURNAMENT.—Tournaments have become quite frequent in the South, and many people object to them as being too expensive for the times and ill-timed, and others think they are no great promoters of good morals. The D. Q. I's of this city, not to be outdone, had a burlesque tournament, which our young folks enjoyed, on Christmas day. As we had no reporter present we avoid any account of it. The affair did not strike us as very complimentary to the religious associations of the day.

Francis A. Fuller has been appointed Collector of Customs at Newbern, North Carolina.

GENERAL NEWS.

The correct vote in Washington on negro suffrage was for it, 35. Against it, 6,603.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, South, convened at Macon, Ga., December 15th.

Forney is in favor of the immediate admission of the Southern members of Congress who can take the test oath.

General Howard, in his report, asks an appropriation of $11,000,000 for the support of the Freedmen's Bureau during the year 1866.

Wilson the Natic Cobbler, said in debate last Thursday, in the House of Representatives: "No people, since the morning of Creation, ever fought a braver battle than the Rebels."

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU.—Hon. Isaac Newton' Commissioner of Agriculture, is supplying all the Southern members of Congress with seeds; and also furnishing his report for distribution throughout the Southern States.

The State Department has advices from our Minister at Chili that the war between Spain and Chili is still kept up. The commander of the Spanish fleet had offered a gross insult to Mr. Nelson, our Minister, for which an apology will be demanded.

The Tribune grows "disloyal, &c." It says:

Is Mississippi constructed, or is she not? If she is, how can the President interfere with her municipal affairs? If she is not, what right has she to ratify a constitutional amendment?

NEW MINISTER TO MEXICO.—General Logan not having accepted the tender of the Mexican mission, the President has nominated the Hon. Lewis D. Campbell, of Ohio, who is now in the city, and who will accept and enter at once upon his duties.

A careful analysis of the status of the Republican Senators reveals the fact that Senators Conness Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foster, Grimes Harris, Henderson, Norton, Ramsey, Sherman, Stewart, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Willey, Williams and possibly Yates, do not endorse the radical anti-administration policy.

Wealth of the Mormons.

Lieutenant Governor Bross, of Illinois, who has been visiting the Mormons, explains the source of their property as follows:

Within the last few years they have grown wealthy. The source of their riches is easily understood. During all the California emigration scorts, and in some years hundreds and even thousands of emigrants would arrive at Salt Lake with their teams broken down, or half of them, and, therefore, unable to proceed. Of course, the Mormons were ready, in true Yankee style, to trade good animals for those that were about worn out, pocketing a handsome difference in hard cash. In a few months, at most, these broken down animals would be fat and sleek, and Mr. Mormon Elder was ready to trade with the next emigrant that came along. Of course, many goods and provisions were sold to the emigrants. Within the last four years there has been a great rush of emigration to Montana and Idaho, and the Mormons have been able to sell all their surplus grain and provisions at fabulous prices. With corn at three to six dollars a bushel, and wheat at eight to ten dollars, and provisions of all kinds at proportionate figures, the Mormons have become rich far sooner than any people upon the continent. Now, the hundred thousand people of Utah give a tenth of all they produce or manufacture to the Church. Brigham Young and his elders are the Church, and hence the untold wealth they have been able to place in their coffers. Two of the merchants of Salt Lake assured us that their freight bill alone would amount, during the present year, to $150,000.

A Few Important Facts in Regard to the Southern Hepatic Pills.

1 They are prepared from the best quality of Medicine by the discoverer, now an aged minister of the Gospel, and are safe.

2 They have been known for years and tested by thousands in the South, and are specially adapted to the diseases of this climate.

3 Hundreds of persons are known to have been cured by them.

4 They are not recommended by the proprietor for everything, but only for diseases which arise from disordered livers.

5 Directions and certificates accompany each box, and these certificates are from well known and most respectable individuals.

6 Correspondents recommend them as good for Liver Disease, Chills and Fever, Pneumonia, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Bilious Fevers, Bilious Rheumatism, Worms, Pleurisy, Bronchitis, Costiveness, Diarrhœa and Hepatic Consumption.

7 Several gentlemen state that the use of these Pills has been to them an annual saving of from $100 to $200.

8 Some Physicians of the highest standing prescribe them to their patients, and hundreds of boxes have been sold to regular practitioners.

Pioneer Line of Steamers
FOR
Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, via Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

THE COMMODIOUS STEAMERS PIONEER and Commodore Adams, will leave Newberne for Norfolk on TUESDAY of each week at 8 o'clock A M, connecting with the different lines of steamers for the above-named points. On and after the first day of December next they will leave on Tuesday and Friday of each week, making semi-weekly trips. Shippers of Goods will receive every facility and accommodation for the transportation of the same, as arrangements have been made with the different companies to forward goods to this line at low rates and without delay. Each of these steamers are capable of carrying 250 TONS OF FREIGHT,
through the canal without difficulty, as they were built expressly for the trade. They are fitted up with STATE ROOMS and BERTHS capable of accommodating thirty-five passengers. Every attention will be paid to the comfort of passengers, who will not be subject to the inconvenience of transfer to other vessels, but will be taken through direct with out charge.

The tables of the steamers are liberally supplied with the best the market affords. Families traveling will find it to their interest to take this line, as they will thereby escape the danger and discomfort of a sea route, and the fatigue of railroad travel.

On the 15th of December next, if the business of the line warrants it, the steamer Williams will be put on the route, and tri weekly trips will be made.

The Constitutionality of the Test Oath.

Washington, Dec. 22.—In the Supreme Court of the United States to-day, pending the case, ex parte, A. H. Garland, of Arkansas, asking to be allowed to practice as a counsellor, Hon. Reverdy Johnson delivered an argument against the constitutionality of the Congressional test oath. There being no such antecedent Government as our own, it is necessary to look into that instrument itself to see what powers were originally conferred upon Congress. These being stated, Congress is authorized to pass all necessary and proper laws to carry them into effect. These powers are to be so construed as to effect the object they are designed to accomplish. It is the duty of the Court to ascertain what this is, and then determine whether the impeached legislation will defeat or secure the end. A restriction on the class of powers is that Congress shall pass no ex post facto law or bill of attainder. The meaning of this is well understood to be, any law which makes an act a crime, which was not a crime when the act was committed. But the law of 1865 does punish in point of fact, because it precludes the petitioner from the exercise of a lawful occupation, and strikes at a profession in which his hopes and ambition and support of himself and family are involved. The punishment is severe, cruel and unexampled. It subjects him to all the obligations of the Constitution, while it takes from him all its advantages.

The original act of 1862 was not made applicable to the attorneys in the courts of the United States. Three years were suffered to elapse when some one in Congress, who may have been peculiarly sensitive, and who saw danger in every man who had taken part in the rebellion, introduced a bill applying the provisions of the law to practicing attorneys. The bill was submitted to the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, and by a unanimous vote was rejected. It afterward, however, received the sanction of the Senate. It was passed for the purpose of excluding the petitioner and all others similarly situated, to punish by excluding them from the United States courts.—It was not for conduct subsequent but antecedent to the passage of the statute. This act comes within the clear meaning of the clause in the Constitution: That Congress shall pass no ex post facto law or bill of attainder. No right can be taken away by law unless the accused shall be first convicted of the offence charged, and these rights include the holding of office of emolument and trust. Such laws as that of 1865 were penal statutes.

The Attorney General last Friday had argued that the admission to practice in the courts is not a natural right, but is created by law, and therefore, may be regulated by law and either given or taken away. But it is not true that Congress can by law prohibit the appearance of counsel in the courts of the United States. The Constitution provides that parties charged with crime shall have the benefit of counsel; and, therefore, Congress has no jurisdiction over that subject. It is true that any court is vested by the common law with power to make regulations to exclude improper officers; but Congress has no right to say who shall or who shall not appear as counsel. The obligation which is imposed on Congress to create courts, carries with it an obligation, on the part of the courts, to admit counsel. The safety of the citizen depends on the existence of the provision for the admission of counsel. The preservation of liberty demands, as illustrated by the history of the world, that there should be such a body of men. In all revolutionary struggles and despotisms which have disgraced the world, the accused have been denied counsel. Congress would convert itself into a tyranny, if, while establishing courts, it would exclude such a class of men.—The act of Congress under review compels a man to swear against himself, while no power is given to the court to inquire into the facts. No man, by the Constitution, is compelled to testify against himself. The petitioner, with others, was involved in the effort to establish their separate independence of the authority of the United States, and resisted it by levying war. The punishment for treason, anterior to the passage of the act of 1865, was death or imprisonment, but this act imposes an additional penalty: That persons thus accused shall not be admitted as attorneys in the United States courts. Congress, in 1862, passed a law saying that whenever the President deemed it proper he might declare a general amnesty, while the Constitution itself confers upon him the exclusive power of granting pardons and reprieves. The pardon places the recipient of it in the position he stood before the commission of the crime—making him a new man, and divests him of all antecedent consequences. Suppose this law of 1865 had been made a part of the act for the punishment of treason, and the man committing the crime had been pardoned, would it not also have exempted him from the punishment for the offence, and prevented him from being excluded from practicing as an attorney in the United States Courts? The pardon covers every part of the offence, and Congress cannot, after the pardon has been granted, pass a law to punish for the offence if pardoned. The disgraceful fact is presented to the world that Congress undertakes to interfere by denying the power of pardon as conferred by the Constitution exclusively on the President without limit. Congress cannot say to the petitioner: You shall be tried for treason after having been pardoned. If this was true of one class of crimes, it was true of all.

Mr. Johnson quoted from various judicial opinions to fortify the points of the argument presented by him.

The Court holds the matter under advisement, and has adjourned until Tuesday next.

A Bomb Shell for the Radicals.

The Washington Star thus sums up the recent speech of Mr. Raymond of New York:

"Mr. Raymond's argument was, that the rebellious acts of secession were nothing more than so many expressions of a purpose to go out of the Union, and to break up the Government which did not succeed, and that the States lately in revolt are therefore still in the Union. One which he argued most conclusively by Mr. Raymond that if secession was a success, if the Southern States were really out of the Union, and beyond its power, as Mr. Stevens claims, then their debts become valid, and the United States forfeits to the privilege of paying it."

IMPORTANT COMMUNICATION,

For the Times, and all Time, to be Considered.

The first stone in the structure of life insurance was laid by the hand of the Almighty when he planted in the human heart the generous impulses of love and affection, which prompt us to provide for our own; but the keystone is this law of average (to secure which we bind ourselves together to bear each other's burdens, the stronger and richer, as the longer lives must be, helping the weaker and poorer brother that is cut down in early life, and by the universal law of compensation it gives us either the blessings of a long life, or the pleasing assurance of leaving a competency to our loved ones, as the films of death are curtaining them from our sight forever.

Times like the present make most manifest the peculiar benefit of life insurance. Business is interrupted. Men are anxious for the future. Thousands have families growing up around them whose property depends upon the continuance of the father's life. Should he die, the income would cease; the children must be withdrawn from school; the mother and elder children must resort to every expedient to sustain the family; and, in many cases with the utmost exertion, this can not be done; the wife will return to her father for support, and the children, separated, must go the older to seek work, and the younger be distributed among friends. Such reverses befall men the least expecting them. While business is active, and prosperity gives exhilaration and hope, men can hardly be made to feel that they are within a hand's breadth of utter reverse, and that their families may be scattered in a month, by the death of the father. But hard times lead men to think of these things.

Now if a man has insured a sum of one, five or ten thousand dollars upon his life, this anxiety is removed. While he lives, he can support his family. If he dies, ample provision is made for them.

It is every man's duty to provide for his family. That provision must include its future contingent condition. That provision, so far as it is material, men ordinarily seek to secure by their own accumulations and investments. But all these are uncertain. The man rich to-day, is, from causes beyond his reach, poor to-morrow. A war in China, a revolution in Europe, a rebellion in America, overrule ten thousand fortunes in every commercial community. But, in life insurance there are no risks or contingencies. Other investments may fail. A house may burn down. Banks may break. Bonds and mortgages may be seized for debt, and all property may fall into the bottomless gulf of bankruptcy. But money secured to your family by life insurance, will go to them without fail or interruption, provided you have selected a sound and honorable insurance company. Of two courses, one of which may leave your family destitute, and the other of which assures them a comfortable support at your decease, can there be a doubt which is to be chosen?"

The benefits of life insurance are not confined to a provision for families, but are as numerous as the various circumstances of individuals. It enables a person to make a provision for a wife, a parent, a child, a friend or domestic, depending on him, and he lives secure, that while his industry is providing for their support, his savings are effectually guarding them against want in the event of his death, thus doing his whole duty toward them instead of only one half of it.

It enables a person to raise money on loans where real security can not be offered, to provide for the prompt payment of his debts in the case of his death, and to secure the eventual payment of doubtful debts.

By it a charitable individual may donate a legacy to some beneficent institution; or a congregation a support to their minister's family in case of his death.

It provides means to reimburse the sum expended in the purchase of any life estate, on the death of the person during whose life it is held; to remove incumbrances, payable on events connected with the termination of life; and secures the return of money paid for education, for capital embarked in business, or other advances made for children or others, in the event of their premature death; and, generally, it affords a certain indemnity against any pecuniary loss whatsoever, to which one individual may become subject, by reason of the death of another.

It is a subject, then, which concerns the poor as well as the rich, the man living on his income, the mechanic the farmer, the professional man, the merchant—in short all classes of the community.

Surely, such an institution deserves the countenance, the consideration and support of all reflecting men, and is doubly recommended, when it is considered how very small a sacrifice of some personal gratification, will secure, by its means, the independence and happiness of a family.
